Report on the topic "Human Health and Cancer"

Date: 20/11/2023

The Department of Biosciences has organized a guest lecture on "Human Health and Cancer" at Himachal Pradesh University on 20-11-2023. Prof. Ashok Kumar was the keynote speaker of this lecture. The lecture was organized to provide valuable insights into the intricate relationship between human health and the challenges posed by cancer. He explained very effectively about cancer and the prevention of cancer. Professor Ashok Kumar commenced the lecture with an overview of the current state of cancer research. He extended the discussion beyond individual treatments to address broader public health implications. The lecture examined strategies for cancer prevention, early detection, and the role of public health campaigns in raising awareness. All faculty members, Ph.D. scholars, and students of the Biosciences department attended this event. Attendees left the event with a heightened awareness of cancer-related issues, equipped with the knowledge to contribute to their professional and personal endeavours. This activity was supervised by Activity coordinator Dr. Nitesh Kumar, Dr. Neelam Kumari, and the Chairperson of the Biosciences Department.
